

Bespoke Furniture - SOLLI Concepts

Two friends Sohel & Lynden started SOLLI Concepts, a bespoke woodworking company in Mumbai. Sohel an engineer studied in New Zealand while Lynden was a banker with HSBC in San Francisco.

At SOLLI, wood is the medium which is used to create pieces with equal importance to both design and functionality. Products are crafted from different kinds of wood, the traditional Indian woods like Teak, American walnut, red cedar, maple, etc.

"As far as possible, we strive to use recycled & sustainably sourced wood and other natural materials that have a minimal environmental impact. Every piece is handcrafted, drawing inspiration from traditional woodworking techniques across the globe, particularly from Asian joinery traditions, with the aim being to showcase the innate beauty and integrity of the wood.

We do a lot of R&D to develop new products. For example it took us 4 months developing our teak washbasin. High quality material, stringent testing conditions ensure our products will last you a lifetime," says Lynden

All products are currently sold at SOLLI Concepts. However, our washroom line will soon be available through some of India's leading luxury sanitary ware retailers like Turquoise, Stylebox and C Bhogilal Fort.
